Here is Asheville Friend Scotty Utz standing with his sculpture which has been installed at Camp Rockmont near Black Mountain NC, on a hilltop known as "Inspiration Point". The official dedication of this work of art took place on Wednesday 10/18 at 6 p.m.

The dedication was well attended by friends and associates from many different parts of Scotty's life journey. David LaMotte, noted Quaker musician and member of Swannanoa Valley Meeting, provided entertainment. He and Scotty were childhood friends, but not in Quaker households, and not in the Asheville area! In his remarks Scotty thanked everyone for being present and described how pleased and honored he felt in having his sculpture occupy this particular place, where he felt such deep connection from his experiences there as a young man.
